STREETWEAR

Deliberately dyed materials sewn together for the (fashion forward) backward (or forward) skiing skier. Hoodies, tees and caps ready for personal use. Putting the IT in fit.

I AM A SKIER

"I am a skier", the saying that's stood the test of time as a symbol of how rad you are. Offered in classic kelly green or something new, this hoodie is a must have for any skier.

SIZE: S, M, L, XL

COLOR: Kelly Green, Burgundy, Black

SENDER PULLOVER

The Sender is the most worn hoodie by our team. The Sender's 100% cotton, high collar and simple styling is the go to for skiers on the hill, in the house and around the world.

SIZE: S, M, L, XL, TEAM

COLOR: Purple

DROPOUT CREW

It's not about what's on the hoodie, but what's not...and that's a hood. You don't need to couple this with a beanie, cap or cowboy hat this just simply looks good. With full cotton comfort and some sneaky side pockets, this crew gives you function and style you deserve.

COLOR: Heather Grey

YOGGER SWEATS

Let go yogging! Yogging, the activity of being completely exhausted after a long and fun powder day and the need to be in the most comfortable pants possible no matter if you're in public or on the couch. Yog away amigos, yog all day, everyday.

SKI TECH

AARON MATHERS
LINE HQ
MODEL: SUPERNATURAL 100

GEOMETRY

Angles and stuff – Not always sexy but the shapes, rises and tapers are the DNA of the intuitive & consistent feel of a LINE ski.

EARLY RISE™

The rise of the tip and tail begin earlier as the ski profile moves away from center making for easier turn initiation and helps get the skis up on plane more quickly. This also means effortless float in softer snow!

LONGER ACTIVE EDGE™

20% more of the sidecut edge length is in contact with the snow when turning which means MORE GRIP & LESS SLIP!

EARLY TAPER™

The widest point of the sidecut begins tapering earlier in the tip & tail which reduces tail hook ups in powder.

FIVECUT™

Not one, not two but FIVE different radii shapes are blended into the ski's overall sidecut to give you that intuitive control & unlimited turn shape.

CONSTRUCTION

Not just pretty on the outside, but also pretty on the inside! These are the guts of the ski that either give it a light & playful personality, stable & precise demeanor or both!

SHOCKWALL™

80 durometer Elastomer material sandwiched by ABS for vibration and shock absorption resulting in a smooth, solid ride.

SIDEWALL

Ultra high density polyethylene walls over the edges absorb vibrations for maximum durability for a smooth, stable feel.

CAPWALL™

The best of both worlds! Cap on the top for light & playful performance with sidewall over the edge for added precision.

4D FIBERCAP™

4 directions of fiberglass are woven across the top of the core for durability without unnecessary weight.

CORES

Each core construction is chosen to enhance the key attributes of the ski. Whether we're focused on precision and stability or nimbleness and weight, rest assured we've made the best core for the job at hand.

CLOUD CORE™

Futuristically blended wood and composite materials create an impossibly lightweight and solid core.

PARTLY CLOUDY CORE™

A blend of light weight wood creating the best strength to weight ratio we offer.

MAPLE MACROBLOCK

2 full length Maple stringers surrounded by Aspen for increased strength and durability.

MAPLELITE MACROBLOCK

Solid Maple under foot with lightweight Aspen at the tips for durability and reduced swing weight.

BAMBOO CORE

A burly core that won't break the bank. Stronger for today's freestyle riding and sustainable fast growing wood makes for an awesome core.

ASPEN MACROBLOCK

100% Aspen for the lightest, most nimble feel.

THE MAGIC

It's a bird, it's a plane, no...wait it's the best technological advances in ski design for the last 21 years.

THIN TIP™

Super thin core & sidewall in the tips are 100 grams lighter per pair for reduced swing weight & tip bounce.

FATTY BASE & EDGE™

30% thicker base & edge, 2mm wide x 2.5mm high edge and 1.7mm thick base dramatically increases durability and tuning life of these skis.

DIRECTIONAL FLEX

The softer tip floats & initiates turns easily while the stiffer tail provides power, stability & high speed control.

SYMMETRIC FLEX

The same flex pattern in front and behind your boot conforms to terrain equally riding forward & backwards.

METAL MATRIX™

Di-cut metal titanal laminate provides more power & grip where you need it while reducing weight where you don't.

CARBON OLLIEBAND™

Tip to tail carbon-fiber stringers enhance energy & pop to ollie over snowboarders.

The Shaper

ERIC POLLARD

Eric Pollard is a stalwart in the industry. Chances are if you're reading this, then you too know of his history with Line. But maybe not. Maybe you, reader, are new to both the history of Line Skis and Pollard's indelible mark on skiing as a whole. But where to begin when discussing a skier who's been so intrinsic to the modern day alpine culture, so at the forethought of design - artful & purposeful in his approach to skiing both on and off-piste.

You start with breakfast.

"While designing my collection of freestyle skis (perfect breakfast burritos), we wanted to make sure we used the lightest, strongest materials

(lightest, fluffiest, farm-to-table eggs) in order to assure perfect (delicious) results. With the Pescado much like the Magnum Opus, the design that went into the (omelet) was the culmination of years of hard work with Line and myself" says Pollard in his kitchen. "Both the Mordecai and Sir Francis Bacon are extensions of that drive (hunger) for a better ski - it needs to float thru milky snow, carve the hard-pack and have a buttery personality."

With decades of collaboration, Pollard has been leading the charge into the unknown of ski shapes, profiles and materials. The new 2017 skis in the Pollard Collection are a feast for the hungry skier.

PESCADO

/pes.'ka.do/1. A fish that has been caught. This ski is a fish out of water! A directional surfy ski has been in the mind of EP for years. With bamboo sidewalls, Partly Cloudy™, a veneer topsheet with a timeless graphic, the Pescado fuses the best of surfing, art and skiing.

TOM

WALLISCH

MAKIN'

IT

Pittsburgh, PA native, Tom Wallisch is a skiing superstar from unlikely origins. His comfort on skis has always been impressive despite having grown up skiing some of the smaller resorts on the East Coast of U.S. like Seven Springs and WISP. Tom burst on to the freeski scene with his mind-bending SuperUnknown edit (Google it), his transformation from “SuperUnknown” to a household name took just a couple of years, revolutionizing skiing in the process. Tom’s banger segments in films from the likes of Level 1, Field Productions and 4bi9 appeared year after year. Despite a rigorous filming schedule, Wallisch managed to top the field at nearly every major competition. His '11-'12 season was the most impressive where he topped the podium at the Killington, VT and Breckenridge, CO stops of the Dew Tour and also winning the Winter X Games in Aspen, CO.

HE TRULY IS THE SKIER'S SKIER

His momentum continues as Wallisch remains the biggest name in freestyle skiing and is the most viewed athlete on Newschoolers.com, attracting fans from all across the freeskiing spectrum for his effortless backcountry booters and 30' closeout rails. His style is the standard by which all others are now measured. Despite the fame, Tom is constantly smiling, stoked and approachable, and always makes time to hang out with fans. He truly is a skier's skier.

Most recently, Wallisch co-founded The Good Company, a new film crew with long time friend and collaborator Kyle Decker. He signed with Line Skis, where he's been developing his new pro model – a process Brand Director Josh Malczyk describes as “a most excellent adventure,” adding that, true to character, “Tom’s feedback, insight and general passion for being able to make gear he’s proud of, motivates everyone in the company”. As he enters his 10th year in the ski industry spotlight, Wallisch is going from strength to strength. His every move is prone to break the internet and continue to push skiing in the right direction.

RIPPING

BY

---

28 year old Jeff Curry from Pittsfield, MA USA has transitioned from east coast park skier to all-mountain ripper in his 15 plus years of riding LINE.

---

Growing up skiing on the East Coast in the early 90's has shaped me into the skier I am today. Learning how to ski on the East has its many disadvantages but it's the struggle that builds strong skiers.

When I first started out skiing, I fell in love with the speed and adrenaline rush from blazing down the hill. By the time I had reached high school, freeskiing had started to take off and I found myself on a constant search for air, and new tricks, taking hold of my life for the next 15 years. I became obsessed with learning how to do the next big trick and tailoring my own style to those tricks.

RIP AROUND THE HILL

I have always considered myself a skier, not just a freestyle skier, and this past season I began a mission to get back to my roots. After abusing my body in the park year after year, I couldn't help but start to feel the cumulative effect, not to mention four major surgeries throughout the years.

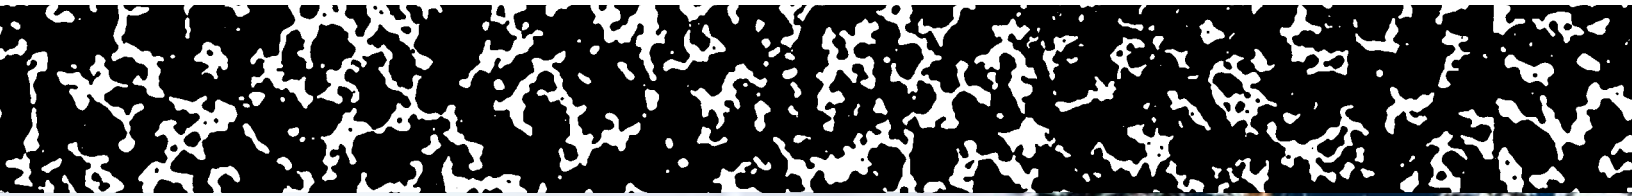

As I get older and transition away from the park, I have found a need for a directional ski that has the same bad ass capabilities as some of my favorite park skis, a ski that can still give you that adrenaline rush that matches hitting a 100 foot jump. I've moved from focusing on going higher and doing more spins to going deeper into the backcountry and finding steeper, more challenging terrain.

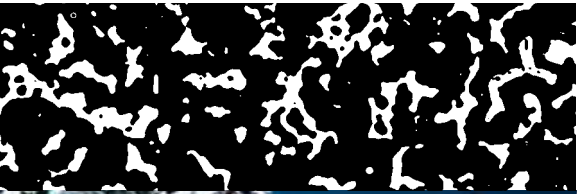

Today my daily drivers are freeride-based directional skis. Having a ski that can rip around the hill became more important than doing park tricks. Getting back on a directional ski has brought me back to the feeling that made me first fall in love with skiing.

Skiing has always been fun, and for me it just took the right ski to remind me how much fun I was having outside the park.

TRIP REPORT

Every spring, I try and hold onto skiing as long as possible. I've even made it into a campaign, of sorts: #NotOverIt. I like to imagine I started that hashtag. This spring was no different. Or maybe it was. It was epic. The Elk Range, my home base, stayed white and snowy well into June and my friends and I made sure to get after it. I skied many lines I had skied before and a few I hadn't. One of those new lines turned out to be a first decent of the direct North face of Capitol Peak.

Capitol Peak, which stands at 14,130 feet, is the Holy Grail of all the mountains in Colorado. There's no easy way up. There's certainly no easy way down. I've actually skied Capitol in the past. A few years prior, I had skied another epic first descent which was my motivation this time around. I wanted to repeat that previous line but as I began looking into the route with my partners, we noticed something else — a new opportunity. With all the late snow, a much more direct line was possible. Or so we thought.

With some fairly serious recon, we formed a plan and pulled the trigger with a party of three. Our day started at midnight. We made our approach under a full moon and though I had done my best to sleep during the day before, I wasn't rested. You know how that shit goes.

AND THEN IT GOT SPOOKY.

Exhausted, we pushed for it. Watching a full moon touch the western horizon as the sun peeked in the east, we gained our final summit ridge. We hit the summit at 9 a.m., and then it got spooky.

At just over 14,000 feet, Capitol sapped our confidence. The top portion of the face was not an option any of us wanted to ski, partly because it looked like sure death. Going back down the way we came was not promising either; it was facing east, getting hot and getting dangerous. Amid thin air, we made the decision to drop in on the planned line, albeit on a rope rather than skis. Two pucker-inducing rappels later and we were in the heart of our line, enjoying some heads up skiing. We put the ropes over our packs for 2000' until we arrived at a massive cliff. After two more sketchy rappels supported with pickets and cams, we arrived on a low angle apron beneath the cliff face. We had survived three hours in a place not suitable to human life and got some special turns while we were there. When we got to the car, we celebrated with a beer and cheeseburger on the grill. It's these adventures I live for. Because of these adventures I'm for sure #NotOverIt.

▶ THE LOVE OF ████████████████████ SKIING

I have had a lot of great days skiing. My first run in Alaska. My first time competing in Europe. My first time sliding a rail. But for some reason, the day that always seems to stand above them all is a powder day when I was in high school.

This wasn't your standard, "run-of-the-mill" powder day – waiting in the Jackson tram line or looking for the largest air or seeking untracked stashes. No. This was a powder day where I was peeing my pants with laughter as I watched my best friend Emily soar through the air, about every six turns. I'd given Emily a pair of skis, and in typical high school forgetfulness, we didn't adjust the bindings. Having a binding issue is usually a day wrecker. For us, it was a day maker.

I can't remember a four hour period in my life where I've laughed harder (and yes I did just watch Pitch Perfect 2 twice in a row on an international flight). The soft snow cushioned every one of her spectacular crashes. The ejections, while consistent, were random in their timing and results. Sometimes just one ski would come off, other times she would take more air than Michael Jordan. Many times we thought of running into the ski shop to have her bindings adjusted. But in the end, it was just simply more fun for her to double eject and me to watch.

And that's why I love skiing. Because you never know when you're going to have the best day. It could be a blue bird powder day. It could be a stormy 15 hour mountaineering slog. Or, it could be just a day where you're laughing with (or at) your friends.
